Check it out! court, even if a claim could be construed as one which would raise a federal question, it is clear that the decision of the court was right, and the judgment is therefore affirmed. For the reasons set forth the judgment is affirmed. Judgment affirmed. Mr. Justice GRONER, concurring. I concur in the judgment. It is true that, under the federal court interpretation of the statute, a California court does not have jurisdiction of a partition suit between non-residents; but it is equally true that in such suits a resident's claim as well as the claim of a non-resident are to be determined by the laws of California.
